

Congressman Pence was in his hometown of Columbus, Indiana yesterday to host a town hall meeting and a particularly noteworthy exchange took place:

A teenage girl told Pence that the weekly work hours for her father, a single dad raising two children, have been cut from 40 to 24.

"What can the stimulus package do to help folks like us?" she asked.

"I think this girl is asking the right question. Because I can't answer that question is why I can't support this bill," Pence said.

The Columbus Republic has more on Congressman Pence's town hall meeting HERE .